Fostering Inclusivity

The Coordination of Community Services (CCS) program was the first program offered at SCI. Originating with seven Service Coordinators supporting 173 people, tremendous growth over the last 40 years has led to serving 14 counties across Maryland and Baltimore City. In FY23 more than 400 Team Members supported over 12,000 community members with intellectual and developmental disabilities.

Cornerstones of Success

Person-Centered planning tools and principles guide the CCS program in meaningful conversations with people served and families. By advocating alongside the person supported, elevating their voice, and collaborating with other members of their support systems, Team Members ensure access to the resources needed to thrive.

Supported Communities

The CCS program also performs educational outreach within communities, including information sessions at resource fairs, self-advocacy conferences, and universities across Maryland. Programs focused on supporting families of students exiting the school system to prepare them for navigating adult service programs are also a vital community resource. The CCS team helps to ease what can be an overwhelming process for students and families by providing educational resources and aids to outline a roadmap during this transitional period.

Removed Barriers

SCI Team Members listen carefully to the people they support, as they share their hopes and dreams, and navigate systems masterfully to make possibilities a reality. With knowledge and navigational expertise, the CCS program provides solutions, resources, and connections to remove barriers. This fiscal year, thousands of people were connected to critical resources to help them find meaningful and competitive employment, access powerful technology, participate in social and recreational activities, and access transportation and community events that aligned with their interests and needs.

“We are bonded by our commitment to help people and families to have a sense of belonging and inclusion.” Jamie Stoner, SVP of Coordination of Community Services

Collaborating for Stronger Communities

The Supports Planning Services (SPS) program originated in 2017 with one program manager, one supervisor and three supports planners supporting over 300 people. Now comprised of over 100 talented Supports Planners, each Team Member plays a vital role in directly supporting individuals applying for and enrolling in home health and community-based services. In FY23, the SPS program expanded by over 56 Team Members and more than 3600+ people served, increasing service reach and capacity across Maryland.

Enhanced the Community

The SPS Team has helped hundreds of people transition from nursing homes to homes within the community. As well as coordinated in home supports and services to thousands of people to prevent nursing home admission.

Bonded by Experience

The SPS Team Member Workgroup was created to enhance the entire life cycle of a Team Member’s recruitment, onboarding, development, and retention. This holistic approach ensures that each Team Member experience reflects respect, opportunity, empowerment, safety, and connection to the SCI mission, vision, and values.

Strengthened Relationships

The SPS program leveraged cross-departmental collaboration opportunities across the organization to enhance operational efficiency, resulting in recruiting top talent, streamlining processes, and increasing impact. The SPS program also launched a quarterly Leadership Track Session, facilitating professional development discussions and solutions. This initiative creates an interactive forum for sharing and receiving mentorship, support with goal setting, and leadership guidance, in addition to a New Supervisor Training Program.

“SCI’s collaborative approach fosters cross-departmental innovation, supporting exceptional case management services within communities.”
Lora Hawkins, VP of Supports Planning Services

STRATEGY

Bridging Differences

In FY23, we continued our focus on strategy to guide SCI's long-term direction. This work includes developing, overseeing, and guiding the organization's strategic plan and external strategic initiatives, along with exploring, forming, and evaluating SCI's long-term business development plans.

"I love Service Coordination because it's the best chance for the state to be effective at its work. They know what it means to get the job done; and as a state government, that's what we need." Wes Moore, Governor of the State of Maryland

Many of Firsts

Kelby Brick, Esq., CDI, was hired to become SCI's first EVP and Chief Strategy Officer. Upon arrival, he took responsibility for implementing processes to establish infrastructure and a framework for a strategic approach across the organization. A government affairs division was established enhancing vital relationships with local, state, and federal public officials.

Pivotal Progress

Since the division's development, state officials have participated in key SCI events, including Governor Wes Moore, Lt. Governor Aruna Miller, and Maryland Department of Disabilities Secretary Carol Beatty.

Strategic Commitment

The new 2024-2026 SCI Strategic Plan was developed as a cross-functional process involving representatives from departments across the organization to ensure that the Strategic Plan reflected our commitment to our mission, vision, core values, and core competencies while taking the organization to the next level.

GOVERNMENT RELATIONS

In FY23, the government relations team tackled intricate state and federal issues to empower the communities served. Strategically positioning SCI before legislators and the executive branch will enhance our ability to educate, advocate, and assist the people we support to thrive in their communities.

Building Bonds

United by the Community

Since establishing the government relations division, notable achievements have included internal best practices in legislative communications and unprecedented support from Maryland’s Lieutenant Governor Aruna Miller and Governor Wes Moore. Secretary of Disabilities Carol Beatty graced the annual Team Member celebration, and further collaborations with Deputy Secretary of Disabilities Lisa Balcastro are being developed.

Celebrated Milestones

The inaugural launch of a legislative agenda was the cornerstone of SCI’s priority to better assist individuals and their families. The agenda encompassed vital areas such as choice and control, the state budget and rates, long-term Medicaid, and the enactment of the End the Wait Act.

Strengthened Advocacy

In FY23, SCI submitted its first-ever earmark request to U.S. Senators Van Hollen and Ben Cardin and publicly testified to the U.S. Senate Select Committee on Aging.

A comprehensive plan showcased the depth of SCI advocacy initiatives and ongoing work to formalize a process to invite stakeholders as keynote speakers for SCI events, fostering an inclusive and collaborative approach within advocacy efforts.

Additionally, we embrace a new Leadership Philosophy, embodying essential elements for developing high-performing teams, supporting a positive Team Member Journey, providing Total Rewards solutions, and fostering continuous learning and an inclusive culture throughout.

Bonded by the Mission

This work is both transformative and enriching as the organization continues to grow. In FY23, the People and Culture team conducted over 2,000 prescreen interviews with applicants and attended 33 college career events and 14 hiring fairs, resulting in 379 positions filled.

Transformed Team Member Lives

MARKETING AND COMMUNICATIONS

From Awareness to Action

The Marketing and Communications (MarCom) team collaborates across the organization to showcase SCL's unique value to people and families throughout the state by uplifting the transformative mission, telling the story of the life-changing impact, and illuminating pathways to receiving support.

Enhanced Visibility and Reputation

Marketing and Communications dramatically increased organizational visibility by initiating and executing the Top Workplaces Program. This endeavor garnered positive regional and national exposure, bolstering SCL's brand reputation. The success of this enterprise improved SCL's ability to attract new Team Members and laid the foundation for the employer brand campaign.

Amplified Reach and Community Connections

MarCom developed and executed a content plan that elevated the quality, quantity, and frequency of SCL brand content across all channels. From social media to newsletters, blogs, and direct emails, SCL's platforms consistently featured impactful stories highlighting our contributions to the people and the community we serve. The strategic efforts have yielded substantial results, including a significant increase in website traffic, heightened social media engagement and a boost in our weekly community digital newsletter, SCL Connect.

Unified Brand Image

Through an ongoing process of evaluating and updating marketing projects, collateral, and events as requests are received, MarCom has succeeded in revamping, reenvisioning, and replacing outdated SCL materials. This approach continually enhances the overall appearance and consistency of SCL's materials while improving our brand recognition, strengthening the identity of SCL.

"It has been a remarkable year of building meaningful connections, increasing awareness of SCL impact, and partnering for progress in the communities we serve." Kandice Ferrell, VP of Marketing and Communications

INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY

“The role of IT is central to driving the SCI mission and ensuring continued impact in the communities we serve.” John LeMay, VP of Information Technology

Beyond Barriers

The Information Technology (IT) department is instrumental in ensuring that operations are secure and efficient. Implementing innovative technology solutions enhances SCI’s ability to serve in a rapidly evolving digital world, increases productivity, and supports leveraging new technological advancements.

Improved Support

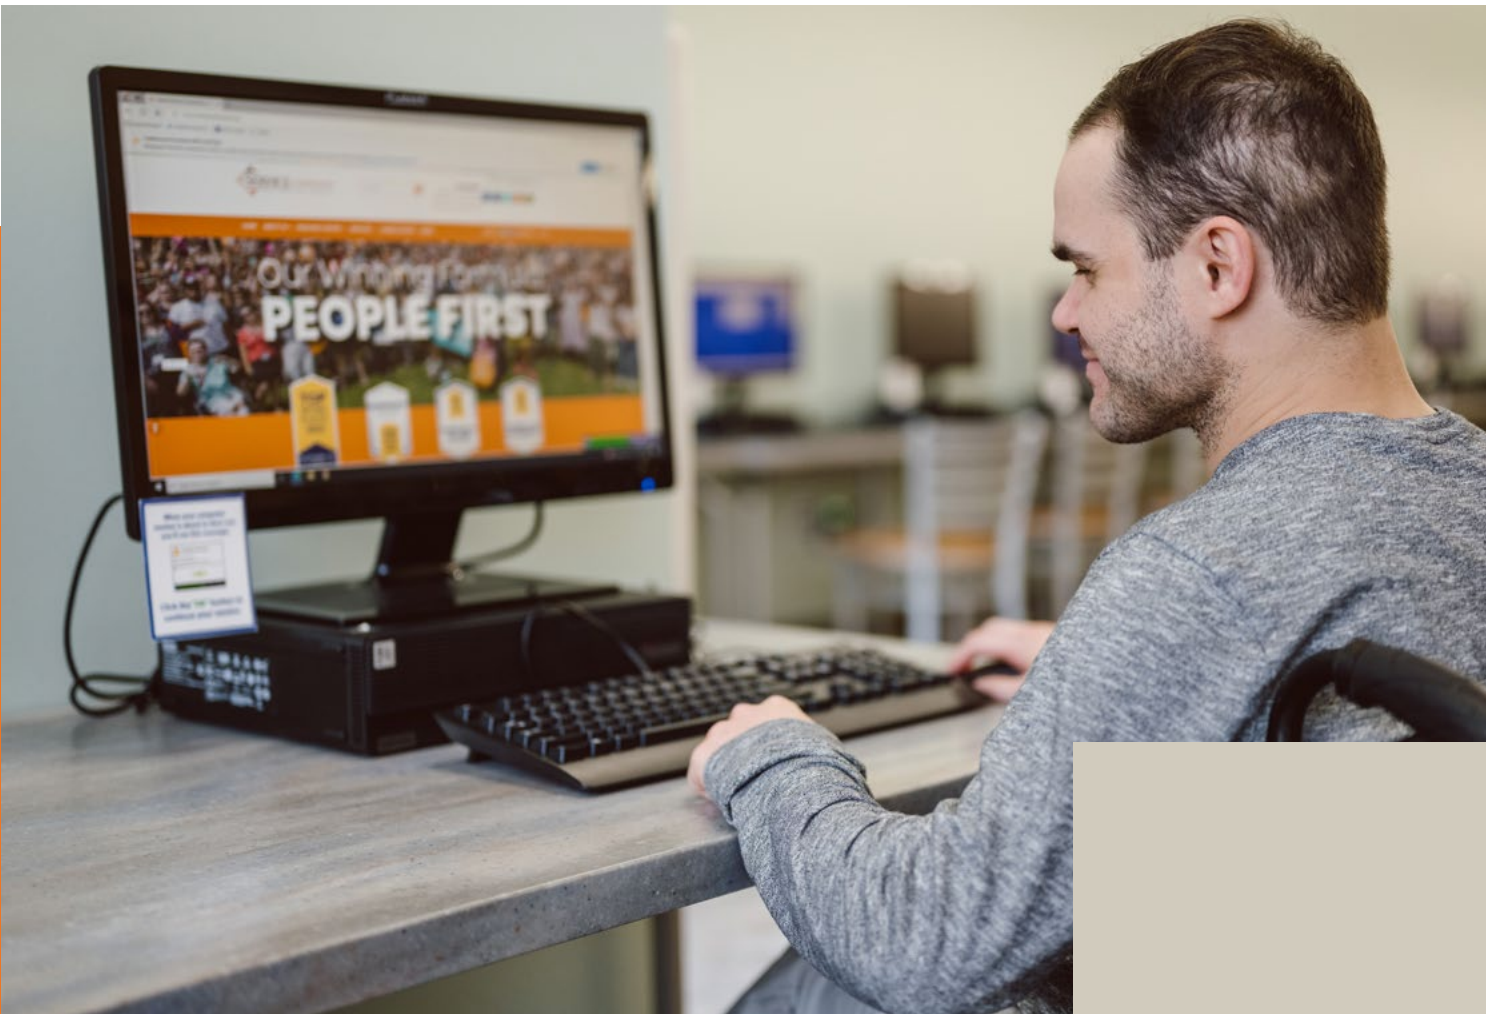

This year, strategic technological investments led to notable IT infrastructure growth, enhancing efficiency and better support for remote and in-office work. Outcomes have included Team Members with heightened connectivity and productivity regardless of their remote office location.

Strengthened Accessibility

For those supported by SCI within communities, IT advancements have resulted in more reliable and accessible services. By implementing new tools and platforms that improve the user experience and ensure data security and privacy, SCI teams have fortified trust and confidence in services.

Celebrated Innovation

An organizational shift towards digital solutions has facilitated an agile response system, ensuring high-quality services. Adaptability has been key to success in FY23, positioning SCI well for future growth and innovation.

Working Together for Good

Newly established in FY23, the Enterprise Project Management (EPM) division is responsible for establishing and implementing project management designed to drive the successful implementation of solutions within the Service Coordination, Inc. Strategic Plan. Enterprise solutions integrate workflow processes, data, and efficiencies across multiple interrelated organizational business units and work to build formalized project management processes.

Bridged the Gap with Technology

The EPM division used standardized templates, visible dashboards, and a portfolio of project management tools to optimize project capacity, leverage shared leadership decision-making, and increase our delivery rigor.

Innovation with a Purpose

The EPM team outlined new project summary statements that included success criteria, project scope, capacity, and cost estimation when assessing proposed spending for new projects.

Built New Skills

The EMP division created new roles to recruit additional Team Members to build technical capacity and bench strength experience in solution architecture, requirements gathering, design, and implementation.

“Integrating workflow processes is essential and can have varying degrees of complexity, coordination, criteria, capacity, and experience required for successful execution.”
Sheila Schanck, Enterprise Project Management Director

Quality Systems continues to grow procedures, best practices, and tools to automate the work of Support Planners, Service Coordinators and the Montcordia team.
